

IJOUR.net is the largest online aggregator of academic and professional journals from the Global South. With a collection of over 300 journals spanning 22 subject categories, the platform aims to provide easy access to relevant research content from the rapidly growing academic communities of the developing world.

The collection has contributions from authors from more than 100 countries. Key contributing nations are:

- Malaysia
- Indonesia
- China
- Saudi Arabia
- Sri Lanka
- Bangladesh
- Iran
- Turkey
- Thailand
- India
- South Africa
- Egypt

The primary objective of IJOUR.net is to promote research conducted in under-served and under-recognized regions. It showcases the increasingly relevant research output of developing countries, and aligns its efforts to enhance visibility and impact of said research. Some of these are highlighted below:

Focus:

The platform specifically concentrates on academic papers originating from emerging economies. It highlights contributions of the academic community in these countries

Support for Academia in Developing Countries:

The platform provides a centralized hub to researchers, scholars, and students, facilitating the discovery and access to academic content authored by researchers and institutions from underserved regions.

Relevance of Research:

The platform promotes the application of localized research tailored to address geographically specific needs. It also encourages collaboration between academia and industry.
